

How We Write Approval Plan Profiles

YBP has been writing Approval Plan profiles for more than 30 years. Over this time we have developed a system that is both precise in locating the right books for libraries, and timely in delivering them within weeks of publication. At the same time, YBP Approval Plan profiles are flexible enough to meet the complex demands upon librarians, while remaining understandable and predictable.

Every profile has two components:

- Series Instructions
- Basic profile made up of three parts:
 - A set of publishers
 - A set of subject specifications
 - A set of non-subject or descriptive parameters

For a book to be shipped to a library on approval, it must first match the series instruction and then fall within scope of all three parts of the library's YBP profile. When a book does not fit all these components, we send a notification slip or exclude the book, as the profile specifies.

- We can block titles in series from being autoshipped or appearing as notification slips.
- Blocked series can be those which you have on standing order with YBP and/or another vendor or which you simply do not want to see.
- We can set a series to come on approval, either as autoshipped books or notification slips.
- General profile specifications for sets and series can be overridden for particular titles. Libraries may request that a given continuation title be entirely excluded from the Approval Plan

Publisher List

- Each YBP Approval Plan profile is based on coverage of a list of publishers selected by the library. Our staff can help librarians design publisher coverage expressly suited to their own collection.
- Any publisher on our Approval Profiles & Notification Slip Plans Publisher List (http://www.ybp.com/publisher_lists.html) can be treated for a library in one of four ways:
 - automatic shipment of books, under subject profile and non-subject parameters
 - notification slips under profile parameters
 - blanket coverage, either for books or notification slips, regardless of profile
 - total exclusion.
- This publisher-based approach gives a library the greatest degree of control over an Approval Plan. Also, the management of firm orders is simplified, since the profile clearly specifies which publishers are covered.

- By selecting our entire list of 1, 400+ imprints, a library can enjoy the same breadth of coverage possible with a subject-based profile, while retaining the control and predictability of the publisher-based approach.

Subject Profile (see Figure 2)

- YBP subject profiles use the Library of Congress classification system, a common language between librarians and vendors, as a framework. (The Dewey Decimal system and National Library of Medicine system can also be used.)
- We modify Library of Congress terms and categories whenever a library's particular needs are best expressed some other way.
- We maintain a list of subject aspects as descriptors ("historical," "public policy," "women's studies," etc.). These aspects, which may be applied wherever appropriate in a subject profile, are especially useful for interdisciplinary programs.
- Geographical modifiers are another common method of modifying LC categories. They can be used either to express the needs of an area studies program or to restrict parts of the world marginal to a library's collection.
- Free-text narrative is another way YBP captures the nuances of a library's collection development policy.
- An extensive system of cross references links LC subclasses in related subject areas.
- Our unique bibliographer-liaison program ensures that libraries at any time can change their profile quickly, predictably, and without risk of error.

Non-subject Parameters (see Figure 3)

- YBP's extensive list of descriptive parameters, or non-subject parameters, is the third component of an Approval Plan profile.
- Any format or feature on the list (reprints, textbooks, series, foreign language, maximum list price, etc.) can be restricted to notification slips only or excluded altogether by a library's profile. These specifications take precedence over the subject profile, guarding against shipment of marginal books.
- Specifications for a given descriptive parameter can vary subject-by-subject, allowing libraries maximum flexibility in profile design. A special price limit might be set in the sciences, for example.
- YBP can set global specifications for special geographical and interdisciplinary subject interests, overriding other profile specifications.

GoBeyond Features:

Go beyond routine title selection with a package of features that places all of your library's selection and ordering activity in the widest possible context.

Consortial Reports: run comparison statistical and title-level reports with the library's GobiTween consortial partners, to identify titles acquired or not for particular subject areas, time periods, publishers, or series.

GobiTween: view title-level activity for cooperating and consortial partner libraries.

New Title Reports: access customized reports on the YBP approval universe, in order to track approval output for budgeting and projection purposes. Reports can be shaped by binding, price, classification, interdisciplinary subject areas, geographic areas, content level, publisher, and other non-subject descriptors.

Peer Comparison Reports: enhance coordinated collection development efforts by creating ranking and title-level comparison reports for user-selected peer institutions, based on subject area, time period, publisher, or type of acquisition. Users can identify titles purchased by their own library but not their peer; titles purchased by the peer library but not their own; titles purchased by both libraries; and titles purchased by neither library.

Peer History: individual users can identify up to 25 peer institutions for which they want to view title-level activity.

GobiPlus Features:

A package of features that makes every GOBI user more efficient and effective.

Advanced Search: construct complex queries of the YBP title database to identify additional titles for purchase or review, by combining classification, approval profiling terms, stock information, and library history.

Folders: create personal and shared folders in which to store titles for future action. In folders, view up-to-the-minute title status and library activity.

Save Search: save search queries for easy retrieval and re-use.

A world of scholars and saints: intellectual life in the Ottoman Arab lands -- 5. The empire at war: Napoleon, the Wahhabis, and Mehmed Ali -- 6. The Tanzimat and the time of re-Ottomanization -- 7. The end of the relationship -- Conclusion: for the faith and state.

=520 \\$a"The Ottomans ruled much of the Arab World for four centuries. Bruce Masters's work surveys this period, emphasizing the cultural and social changes that occurred against the backdrop of the political realities that Arabs experienced as subjects of the Ottoman sultans. The persistence of Ottoman rule over a vast area for several centuries required that some Arabs collaborate in the imperial enterprise. Masters highlights the role of two social classes that made the empire successful: the Sunni Muslim religious scholars, the ulama, and the urban notables, the acyan. Both groups identified with the Ottoman sultanate and were its firmest backers, although for different reasons. The ulama legitimated the Ottoman state as a righteous Muslim sultanate, while the acyan emerged as the dominant political and economic class in most Arab cities due to their connections to the regime. Together, the two helped to maintain the empire"--$cProvided by publisher.

=520 \\$a"In this book, McMahon argues that a reading of Kant's body of work in the light of a pragmatist theory of meaning and language (which arguably is a Kantian legacy) leads one to put community reception ahead of individual reception in the order of aesthetic relations. A core premise of the book is that neo-pragmatism draws attention to an otherwise overlooked aspect of Kant's "Critique of Aesthetic Judgment," and this is the conception of community which it sets forth. While offering an interpretation of Kant's aesthetic theory, the book focuses on the implications of Kant's third critique for contemporary art. McMahon draws upon Kant and his legacy in pragmatist theories of meaning and language to argue that aesthetic judgment is a version of moral judgment: a way to cultivate attitudes conducive to community, which plays a pivotal role in the evolution of language, meaning, and knowledge"--$cProvided by publisher.

=500 \\\${a}"A Chapman & Hall book".

=520 \\\${a}"Suitable for both beginners and advanced users, this book shows you how to write reports in simple languages such as Markdown. The reports range from homework, projects, exams, books, blogs, and web pages to any documents related to statistical graphics, computing, and data analysis. While familiarity with LaTeX and HTML is helpful, the book requires no prior experience with advanced programs or languages. For beginners, the text provides enough features to get started on basic applications. For power users, the last several chapters enable an understanding of the extensibility of the knitr package."--\${c}Provided by publisher.

=520 \\\${a}"Preface We import a dataset into a statistical software package, run a procedure to get all results, then copy and paste selected pieces into a typesetting program, add a few descriptions and finish a report. This is a common practice of writing statistical reports. There are obvious dangers and disadvantages in this process: 1. it is error-prone due to too much manual work; 2. it requires lots of human efforts to do tedious jobs such as copying results across documents; 3. the workflow is barely recordable especially when it involves GUI (Graphical User Interface) operations, therefore it is difficult to reproduce; 4. a tiny change of the data source in the future will require the author(s) to go through the same procedure again, which can take nearly the same amount of time and effort; 5. the analysis and writing are separate, so close attention has to be paid to the synchronization of the two parts; In fact, a report can be generated dynamically from program code. Just like a software package has its source code, a dynamic document is the source code of a report. It is a combination of computer code and the corresponding narratives. When we compile the dynamic document, the program code in it is executed and replaced with the output; we get a final report by mixing the code output with the narratives. Because we only manage the source code, we are free of all the possible problems above. For example, we can change a single parameter in the source code, and get a different report on the fly."--\${c}Provided by publisher.
